NOT ALL IN BRINGING UP.
It isn't all in bringing up,
Let folks say what they will;
You silver-wash a pewter cup,
It will be pewter still.
Even the old wise Solomon,
Who said, "train up a child,"
If I mistake not, raised a son,
Gay, rattle-brained, and wild.

Aman of mark, who fain would pass
For lord of sea and land,
May have the training of an ass,
And bring him up full grand.
May give him all the wealth of lore,
Of college and of school;
Yet, after all, make him no more
Than just a decent fool.

Another raised by penury,
Upon her bitter bread,
Whose road to knowledge is, that
The good for heaven must tread;
Has but a spark of nature's light,
Will fan it to a flame,
Till in its burning brightness,
The world may read his name.

If it were all in "bringing up,"
In council and restraint,
Some rascals had been honest men—
I'd been myself a saint.
Oh, 'tisn't all in bringing up,
Let folks say what they will;
Neglect may dim a silver cup,
It will be silver still.

Extracts from the Journal of a Virginia Young Lady in 1782.
We have before us a very handsome and pleasing little volume of fifty-six pages, entitled "Journal of a young lady of Virginia, 1782," printed and published for the benefit of the Lee Memorial Association of Richmond. This journal appears to have been written by the young lady while on a visit to the Lees, Washington, and other families of Virginia. It is in the form of a letter continued from day to day, and addressed to Miss Polly Brent. After the lapse of eighty-nine years the manuscript was found "in an old desk at a country place in Maryland, to which Polly Brent carried it upon her marriage into one of the old families of that State."

There is a quaintness, a freshness, and a feminine love of gossip in this journal that will be pleasing to every reader. It gives pictures of the manners of the period at which it was written. It would seem that the ladies then, as now, took time to primp, and that the gentlemen sometimes got tipsy. The following extract presents two young ladies (one the writer of the journal) in a point of view decidedly not romantic. Two coal-heavers could not have existed a superior capacity for eating. It also presents a pretty rough case of romping. Manners must have been somewhat free in those days. The journal says:

"I must tell you of our frolic after we went to our room. We took it into our heads to wait to eat. Well, we had a large dish of bacon and beef; after that, a bowl of sage cream; and after that, an apple pie. While we were eating the apple pie in bed—God bless you!—making a great noise—in came Mr. Washington, dressed in Hannah's short gown and petticoat, and seized and kissed me twenty times, in spite of all the resistance I could make, and then cousin Molly. Hannah soon followed, dressed in his coat. They joined us in eating the apple pie, and then went out. After this we took it into our heads to wait to eat oysters. We got up on our wrappings, and went down into the cellar to get them. Do you think Mr. Washington did not follow us and scare us just to death? We went up, though, and eat our oysters. We slept in the old lady's room, too, and she sat laughing fit to kill herself at us. (Wonder where the pickles were?)"

Frequent allusions are made to the Frederickburg races. The "Forti-planer" and the "Spinnet" are often referred to. This little volume only gives true pictures of Virginia life; but a very charming young lady was the writer, and now, nearly a century after it was written, it is published.—Richmond Whig.

Who Wrote General Jackson's Proclamation?
To the Editor of the Tribune:
Sir: In your speech at New Orleans, when speaking of Gen. Jackson's proclamation, you said: "Edward Livingston very probably wrote it." The following statement may be implicitly relied on as correct: During the political campaign of 1848, in Ohio, an intimate friend of mine, David Begges, Esq., drove Gov. Corwin to and from New Lisbon, Ohio, in his carriage. Doing business in the same office, I asked Mr. Begges, the day after, if he had had any conversation with Mr. Corwin of special interest. Mr. Begges replied that he had asked Mr. Corwin if he knew who wrote Gen. Jackson's proclamation. Mr. Corwin answered: "Some years ago I had some business in the office of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Company, which I transacted with Lewis McLane, of Delaware, who was then president of the company. When my business was finished I asked him if he knew who wrote Gen. Jackson's proclamation. Mr. McLane then rose from his seat, and drew from a pigeon hole a document, which he handed to me, saying it was the protocol of the proclamation, with interlineations and corrections. Mr. McLane also said that, on account of Gen. Jackson's handwriting being obscure, he was obliged to make a copy for the printer's use."

MARENGO, IOWA, June 15.
The intermarriage of two families in Maine is remarkable. One consisting of four sons and one daughter has married all of a neighbor's children, four daughters and a son!

ANECDOTES OF DANIEL WEBSTER.—Among the Websterians there is nothing of his better than the answer to the French minister who asked him, while Secretary of State, whether the United States would recognize the new Government of France.

The Secretary assumed a very solemn tone and attitude, saying:
"Why not? The United States has recognized the Bourbons, the republic, the directory, the council of five hundred, the first consul, the Emperor, Louis XVIII, Charles X, Louis Philippe, the—"

"Enough! enough!" cried the French minister, perfectly satisfied by such a formidable citation of consistent precedents.
When Daniel Webster was a young man, about commencing the study of law, he was advised not to enter the legal profession, for it was already crowded. His reply was, "There is room enough at the top!"

What but a suppressed sense of humor, in both speaker and auditors, could possibly have carried off such a speech as this, which is attributed to Webster?
"Men of Rochester, I am glad to see you, and I am glad to see your noble city. Gentlemen, I saw your falls, which I am told are one hundred and fifty feet high. That is a very interesting fact. Gentlemen, Rome had her Caesar, her Scipio, her Brutus, but Rome, in her proudest days, had never a waterfall a hundred and fifty feet high! Gentlemen, Greece had her Pericles, her Demosthenes and her Socrates, but Greece, in her proudest days, never had a waterfall a hundred and fifty feet high! Men of Rochester, go on. No people ever lost their liberties who had a waterfall one hundred and fifty feet high!"—Bench and Bar, by L. J. Bigelow.

DISGUSTING CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.—The indefatigable Mr. Bergh dragged to the Court of Justice this morning, one James M. Comins, of No. 143 East Twenty-sixth street, a physician, whom he charges with setting traps to catch cats in his garden at night, said traps catching the animals by the feet and holding them in terrible torture, to the annoyance, horror, and disgust of the neighbors, until Comins enters the garden and kills the cats by clubbing them to death. It is also alleged that he fastens cats around the body and suspends them high up in the air until the night is hideous with their howls of agony. Fastidious people will be apt to skin this paragraph, the best quality of its heading, so this may be the proper place to state that B. F. Butler is in town, having arrived on Saturday morning, and will remain until Wednesday. He dined at the Union League Club last evening, and is expected to participate in the demonstration to the Hon. Horace Greeley this evening.

A YOUNG GIRL'S THOUGHTS.—Parapa Rosa was singing Casta Diva at San Francisco. Folding her white hands on her bosom, and raising her tender eyes, she commenced her Aolian notes, the melody swelling and breaking into a rush of plaintive, supplicating harmony, that vibrated through every chord of the heart.

I gazed at my friend at my side, radiant in her dress and halo of golden hair, and there was a sweet pensive look on her downcast face. The music ceased and the audience, wild with enthusiasm, was demanding an encore, when beautiful companion raised her large serene eyes to mine, and said, "Isn't it sad?"

"Yes," replied I quickly, sharing her feeling, "although so glorious, it touches a melancholy chord."
"O nonsense!" she exclaimed, "don't mean that!" You know very well that I don't pretend to appreciate this kind of musical jargon. I mean isn't it sad to see so many young men bald-headed? I wonder if it isn't dissipation, or the climate, or what? Do you know that I have been picking out bald-headers down in the park, and would send you a list of them?

"What do you come here after?" said Miss Nipper.
"I come to borrow matches," he meekly replied.
"Matches! That's a likely story. Why don't you make a match? I know what you come for," cried the exasperated old virgin as she backed the bachelor into a corner. "You come here to hug and kiss me almost to death! But you shan't without you're the strongest, and the Lord knows you are!"

"Sponge paper, a French novelty, is said to have all the peculiarities of sponge, absorbing water readily, and remaining moist a long time. It has been used as a dressing for wounds with considerable advantage. For its fabrication, evenly and finely divided sponge is added to ordinary paper pulp, and this is worked, as in a common paper-making apparatus, into sheets of different thickness."

WE, THE UNDERSIGNED, HAVE ACCEPTED an annuity for the sale of the Bonds, and unhesitatingly recommend them to all classes as an investment that combines a profitable rate of interest with absolute security. This affords a fine opportunity for such as are holding Government bonds to exchange them for these, as they are every way as good a security, and yielding one third more income. The Government will probably soon call in their 5-20s, and the present premium will thus be more absorbed.
Further information will be given by calling upon us.

WM. BROWN.

THE FIRST CERTIFICATE.—We are glad to learn that, under the late act of Congress giving pensions to the veterans of the war of 1812, our old venerable friend and fellow citizen, Capt. Thos. S. Theobald, has received his certificate, which is the first we have heard of as having been issued to a Kentuckian.

Capt. Theobald was 1st lieutenant in Modrill's Company of Kentucky Mounted Rifles, having enlisted in 1811, and is now in the enjoyment of a healthy old age, being in his 80th year. The certificate entitles him to eight dollars per month, commencing on the 14th day of February last, being issued from the Interior Department, and dated June 21st.

We are requested to say that, owing to the death of a relative, whose funeral takes place to-day, Col. S. I. M. Major will be unable to be present at the meeting at Monterey, in Owen county, as he had expected.

FINE OATS.—The seasonable rains of the past month have brought the oats out wonderfully, and there is now a prospect of a very heavy crop. We have received from Hunt Reynolds, Esq., samples of two varieties grown by him, which are very fine. One is apparently the black Poland, and the other from seed sent by Governor Stevenson from the Patent Office. The heads of the latter are nearly a foot long, and with very heavy grain.

At the late commencement of Princeton College, N. J., Benjamin R. Warfield, of Lexington, Ky. carried off the highest honors.

THE SPEAKING YESTERDAY.—Notwithstanding the hot weather and the noon-hour at which the meeting was called, quite a large and enthusiastic audience was assembled at the court-house, on yesterday, to hear the address of our able and eloquent Senator, Col. J. Q. Chenoweth, on the political issues of the day.

He was listened to for an hour and a half with interested attention, being frequently interrupted with applause. Many of his points were ably made, and the fervid eloquence of his language was such as to carry conviction as to the speaker's sincerity.

He arraigned the Radical party for its many shortcomings, its false issues, its instability and its insincerity. He charged it with duplicity in almost every measure—citing those concerning immigration, amnesty, the school laws, and other measures of local importance.

He related them about their pretended interest in the Southern Railroad—their effort to make it a political issue. He charged that Harlan was occupying a false position; that he was expedient in the matter of this road; that his real sentiment has always been opposed to it.

He alluded to the assaults made by the Radicals on the Kentucky Legislature; the charges of extravagance, &c., and related them all handsomely. His figures concerning the State finances were such as could not be disputed. He proved how prosperous the State had been and how well managed under Democratic authority.

At the conclusion of Col. Chenoweth's speech Judge Craddock, in response to a very general call, addressed the audience in a speech of half an hour, in which he discussed the new amendments and the Radical policy of the General Government, showing how steady were the encroachments of power upon the liberties of the people, how fatal they would prove if not arrested. This he did not believe was to be effected by endorsing their usurpations especially as manifested in the 14th and 15th amendments, the manner of their adoption and the power claimed under them. He took strong ground against the "New Departure" as countenancing these Radical acts.

Both speeches were listened to with close attention, and the speakers were frequently applauded. We regret that our space precludes a more extended notice of their merits.

DEATH OF AN OLD CITIZEN.—We regret to announce the death of Mr. John R. Scott, of this county, who departed this life at his residence in this county on Sunday afternoon.

He was the son of the late Joel W. Scott, and elder brother of Robt. W. Scott, Esq. For nearly a year he has been in bad health, and his death has not come unexpected to his friends, among whom he numbered all who knew him. He was in his sixty-fourth year and a most estimable citizen. His funeral will take place from his residence at half-past nine o'clock this morning.

THE FOURTH.—The celebration of the fourth in this community will principally consist in a number of picnics, bourgeois, &c.

The Good Templars' picnic, in Walcutt's woods, will be attended by all the Good Templars and best dancers. The Lodge is composed mostly of young ladies and young gentlemen, and it will, beyond doubt, be the most attractive entertainment of the day.

There will be two bourgeois. One will be attended by some of the most ancient and substantial citizens, and at the other young America will largely prevail. The Baptist Sunday School will have a picnic in Squire Todd's woods, near his residence. The Presbyterian Sunday School will have a feast in their school-room, in the basement of the Church at night.

COUNTY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION.—The physicians of Frankfort and Franklin county are requested to meet at the court-house (up stairs) on Saturday, July 15th, at 2 P. M. The intention is to form a County Medical Association.

U. V. WILLIAMS,
JNO. L. PHYTHIAN,
B. F. DUVAL,
W. B. RODMAN.

A RELIC OF THE OLDEN TIME.—While the workmen were engaged the other day excavating for the foundation of Mr. Reynolds' new flouring mill, they encountered what appeared the stump of a sapling, a foot or more in diameter, just on the corner of St. Clair and Wapping street. This ordinarily would not have excited any attention, had it not been recognized by Mr. J. M. Martin as the remains of the Clay ash pole placed there during the exciting political campaign of 1844.

Mr. Martin, who is superintending the erection of the mill, was present at the raising, and identified it as the venerable and well-preserved stump of the pole which he had assisted in planting there twenty-seven years before.

On Saturday the Democracy of Louisville nominated Messrs. A. T. Pope and B. J. Webb for the Senate, and Messrs. Ferguson, Sucksteder, Waide, Wright, Anderson, Carpenter, and Cassidy, for the House. Two districts have yet to make nominations.

Judge T. F. Hargis, Democratic candidate for State Senator from the counties of Nicholas, Fleming, Rowan and Carter, has published a list of appointments for public speaking at most of the prominent points in those counties.

COLLEGE EMINENCE.—We understand that the colored folks will celebrate the fourth by giving a picnic on the college eminence, in the suburbs of Bell Point.

COUNTY COURT.—The attendance at court yesterday was fair. The court finishes its business in short order. The sales were small. The farmers speak encouragingly of the crops.

The attention of contractors is directed to the notice of Dr. Black, Superintendent of the Feeble-minded Institute.

Walker's Exchange, Louisville, will be opened to-day on the European plan.

HOT.—The thermometer yesterday at noon stood at 93°.

The dogs of Georgetown are required to be muzzled.

WHEELER'S MULE-A "FIELD DAY" AT LOUISVILLE, KY. MONDAY, JULY 10, 1871.

There are thousands to whom the above caption may seem inexplicable, while again it evokes weighty remembrances in the minds of that class of Kentuckians whose experience since the war, have time and again caused them to bitterly wish that they had never seen or heard of such a quadruped.

But to the point. We all know that a favorite mode of investment of capital by the residents of the stock-raising section of our State has been in mules and other live stock. In a majority of instances, the moment a young man arrives at an age when it is thought he is competent to transact business for himself, or others, all his available cash, as well as credit, is embarked in procuring a drove of stock to take South. Five and ten thousand dollars—aye, often twice that sum—is risked in such speculations, and that, too, when all the profit, if any, is swallowed up by hands to help, hotel bills, freight, delay, depreciation arising from an overstocked market, death of one or more of the animals, sales upon credit with no return, and other contingencies, ad infinitum, all calculated to cause the profits to grow "beautifully less." We will here remark, that we do not wish to be understood as advocating any cessation in the efforts of our stock raisers and traders to maintain the matchless reputation of Kentucky, so justly earned, over all others in any line and grade of stock. On the contrary, our real object, in advertising the stubborn facts above related, is simply done to draw a distinguishing line between the security, permanency, and sure profits that necessarily follow judicious and timely investments of capital, compared to the risks involved, where money and time are imprudently and injudiciously risked in doubtful undertakings.

The most favorable opportunity to practically realize this distinction is now presented to the people of our State, and in calling attention to the subject herein commented upon, we want two simple facts to be borne in mind: 1st—Safety in investments is the first and great consideration with all. 2d—Real estate is the bed rock of all values: it was man's first estate, and forms the receptacle of his last.

The judicious investment of money in real estate is almost the only means by which the wealthy men of this country have amassed such fortunes. Many of them, it is true, have made large amounts of money in their regular business, like Stewart, Morgan, and others, but the great additions have been made through their wise purchases of real estate. The rich men of Chicago, Cincinnati, and St. Louis, are those made so by the rise of property, and so in all other places, with but few exceptions. The judicious investment of money in real estate is the road to wealth. Those who buy it when cheap, and hold it, not the speculator who buys to-day and sells to-morrow, but those who buy as an investment, of those who will only sell for the purpose of making still better investments, or who sell a part for the sake of making the remainder productive—will find real estate transactions profitable, no matter whether the investment be $5,000 or $50,000.

With this experience before us, we ask the attention of every man in this community to carefully peruse the announcement contained in another part of this paper, of the great enterprise set on foot by some of Louisville's most enterprising citizens. We refer to the great Trust Sale of suburban property, known as "Parkland Subdivision," in Louisville. Compare, but for an instant, the safety of investing capital in this great enterprise, with the risks enumerated as part of live stock adventures. Hundred and thousands of our young men here have an opportunity to not only invest capital, but to become identified with many of the great manufacturing and mercantile enterprises everywhere springing up in and about the Falls City. Give this matter your most serious attention, and should you not feel able to alone purchase a dozen of these lots, let several agree to buy jointly. In the meantime call upon or address W. H. Beynroth, Trustee, or Morris Southwick & Co., Auctioneers, Nos. 64 and 65 West Jefferson street, Louisville, Ky., and procure free of charge maps, pamphlets, papers, &c., replete with information that will enable you to realize thousands where only hundreds have been invested.

NEW PRESIDENT.—Major L. E. Harvie, owing to a pressure of private business, having resigned the presidency of the Frankfort and Flat Creek turnpike company, on yesterday, the directors elected Mr. R. Elliot Collins president of the company. Mr. Collins is a public spirited man, and will exert himself to promote the interest of the road, and thereby materially contribute to the best interest of the citizens of the county and Frankfort.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

FOR SALE,
A LARGE & SPLENDID FARM,
AND EXTENSIVE AND VARIOUS PERSONAL PROPERTY

MY HEALTH REQUIRING ME TO SPEND my remaining winters in Florida, I must discontinue Farming and Stock-raising, and I therefore desire to sell the farm on which I have long resided, known as "LOCUST HILL," situated on the Eastern border of Franklin county, Ky., and partly in Woodford, in an upland rolling country of great salubrity of climate and fertility of soil, and not surpassed, all things considered, if indeed, it is equaled, by any other in the State.

ROADS.

The Louisville and Lexington Railroad, and the State road from Frankfort to Lexington, pass through it, under the same lines of fence—affording a commanding front view of the principal dwelling-house and adjacent grounds;

the Frankfort and Versailles Turnpike is on the western boundary; Ducker Depot is within a mile and a half, and thus easy access is had, from all directions, it being five miles from Frankfort, nineteen from Lexington, and seventy from Louisville.

SOCIETY

Is excellent; and religious, educational, and social conveniences abundant and varied.

GENERAL FEATURES.

The farm contains over seven hundred and eighty acres, all under a high state of cultivation, subdivided into twenty fields and pastures, with numerous small lots for stock of all kinds, with four woodlands located on different parts of the farm; all securely and appropriately inclosed by rail, post-and-rail, hedge, and paling fencing, in good condition, made in the best manner, and of the best materials.

THE SOIL.

Originally fertile and covered by dense forests of chestnuts, and underlaid by stratified limestone convenient for fencing, is still kept in a high state of fertility by various enriching processes, thereby producing, in proper rotation, remunerating crops of hemp, corn, wheat, barley, tobacco, and oats, alternating with luxuriant crops of red and white clover, timothy and orchard grass, and, not least, the blue-grass, which is the gold and glory of Kentucky.

THE WOODLANDS.

Of ash, walnut, cherry, oak, hickory, and sugar maple, are well cleaned and set in blue-grass, and not encumbered with weeds or bushes, and afford abundant supplies of fuel and of valuable timber, not only for agricultural, but also for mechanical purposes. Beautiful and valuable groves and rows of black locust have been fostered and planted in various parts of the farm, and the supply of this valuable material is largely beyond the requirements of the farm, and would find ready sale. Several long lines of red cedar have been planted as screens to the fields, orchards, and stock lots, and are in luxuriant growth.

WATER FOR THE FARM

Is supplied by two large and permanent rivulets, numerous perennial springs and their branches, and by small stock ponds, thereby affording water in almost every lot, field, and pasture; while a large cistern and a deep well afford a household supply, and two large ponds afford fish and bathing in summer, and ice and skating in winter.

THE BUILDINGS

Consist of the family mansion, of brick (hereinafter illustrated), and of adjacent buildings adequate to accommodate from fifty to one hundred persons; besides three other comfortable dwellings on other parts of the farm, one of which is of brick, with five rooms, another of frame, with six rooms, and the other of logs, &c., with three rooms—all in good repair, and supplied with appropriate out-buildings, making a division of the farm easy and convenient, if at any time it should be desirable, into four separate tracts, each of which would contain appropriate and comfortable dwellings and other improvements.

THE MANSION HOUSE

Was built by me in 1845-'47; all the work of brick, cut stone, and wood, being of the best material, and executed in permanent and tasteful style. It contains twenty rooms, including basement and attic, all neatly and appropriately finished, and fire-proof as far as practicable, and warmed by a furnace, each room having fire-place and grate also. The dwelling fronts to the northeast, having a commanding elevation, and overlooking a grassy lawn of eight acres, and a fish pond of two and a quarter acres, under hedge and post-and-rail fences, with the railroad and State road at the foot of the lawn, affording a fine view of passing trains, vehicles, &c.

THE SPACIOUS YARD

Is fully planted with deciduous and evergreen native and exotic trees and shrubs, interspersed with numerous and choice fruit trees of various kinds.

THE GARDEN.

Of over two acres, is inclosed by a paling fence; is of the best soil, and under high cultivation; and is abundantly stocked with trees, vines, bushes, and plants and flowers, conducing to the greatest profit, comfort, and beauty.

THE ORCHARD

Contains over six acres, securely inclosed, and with a cedar hedge on the northwest side of it; is of fertile soil, and is fully planted with a choice collection of apple, pear, peach, and cherry trees, all in bearing; and the location of it, and of the adjacent garden and yard, being high, and with a favorable exposure, the fruit rarely fails, and is abundant now.

THE OBSERVATORY

On the top of the house overlooks a large portion of the farm, and commands a cultivated landscape of uncommon beauty and loveliness. This property is not only well suited in all respects for a large farmer and stock-raiser, but also presents strong inducements as a location for a religious community, a literary or charitable institution, or for a body of immigrants.

A DIVISION OF THE FARM
Can be easily effected, and I will sell separately that part of it which lies on the north side of the railroad, containing over two hundred and sixty-eight acres, all of which is first-rate land, with lasting water, superabundant timber, with two comfortable tenements, one of brick and the other of logs, with appropriate out-buildings, all yielding valuable and heavy crops of all kinds.

POSSESSION

Can be delivered in time to sow small grain, and completely in October or November next.

THE PAYMENTS

Will be made easy, with one half cash on receiving possession, and the payment of interest on the deferred payments.

Purchasers are invited to inspect the premises in person, or apply by mail for full description.

SALE OF STOCK & PERSONAL PROPERTY.
I will also sell, at public auction, on Tuesday, the fifth of September next, fifteen or twenty head calves, the thorough-bred bull Duke of MAPLETON, 7863, and four young Bulls, all having Herd-book Pedigrees, and being of best milking stock;

Also, about one hundred head of my "IMPROVED KENTUCKY" SHEEP, males and females; Also, about one hundred head of CASHMERE blood, thorough-bred and grade, and all with wool long enough to be shorn;

Also, about one hundred head of FATTENING Hogs, and sows and pigs of best practical farm breed;

Also, thirty or forty head of MARES and HORSES, of all ages, and good for farm, and draft, and saddle;

Also, fifty to one hundred acres of Corn in the shock or field, and Hay and Oats in the stack;

Also, Farm Machinery and Implements of all kinds, and Blacksmiths' and Carpenters' Tools, &c.

Full particulars will be given in handbill form, which will be sent to applicants by mail.

Terms—Cash for all sums under one hundred dollars; and approved negotiable notes at four months for all sums over that amount.

THE TRI-WEEKLY YEOMAN.

FASHION NOTES.

Swansdown tassels for window-shades have been introduced.

The prettiest fans are those which, when open, look like butterflies.

The most fashionable tints for visiting cards are lavender and pale blue.

Sailor hats, jackets, and collars, are all the rage for the fair ones this year.

Very wide braid or velvet should be used in trimming the edge of street costumes.

White kids are now out of fashion, and lavender, light gray, and yellow, are most affected.

Violet should never be worn in evening dresses, because it banishes under artificial light.

Violet or heliotrope is the most delicate and stylish perfume for sachets for the wardrobe.

Large round hats of white muslin, with a flower or white ribbon, are all the rage for the country.

It is the style now to cut the wedding cake, and administer it to the guests in dainty little boxes.

Ruffles and lace ruchings for the neck and sleeves are more in fashion this year than they ever have been.

Tortoise shell chains, wherefrom depend tortoise shell bells with tongues of gold, are the latest necklaces.

Linen collars are now worn square, back and front, and not pointed, and are trimmed with insertion and edging.

Six silk dresses will now last a young lady through the summer, whereas twenty-five was last year's allowance.

Simple white muslin and plain gold engagement rings are what pretty Philadelphia girls are served up in at the altar.

Opera cloaks are now of white cashmere, with two large capes, and completely covered with elaborate silk embroidery.

The newest fashionable luxury is a croquet tent, which only weighs 35 pounds, and can be pitched in a moment.

Russia leather belts, with large buckles and small bags attached, which worn by ladies, especially with muslin dresses.

Next fall's bonnets are so painfully novel that milliners will have to hire people to wear them, and so break in the fashion.

For children this summer braids and short frizzled hair are both very fashionable. The manic style of wearing the hair floating down the back is not considered recherché only at a soiree and hop.

Very handsome toilets are of black China crape overdresses, elaborately embroidered, and worn over a black silk with small ruffles. A sleeveless jacket of crape is worn over a black silk waist with long sleeves.

Fashion predicts that little folks must wear shoes corresponding in color to the sash. Slippers and low cut button shoes are stylish for girls and boys from six to twelve years old. Silk gloves of light tints. Fancy parasols. Frills and plain collars. Small bows for the neck. Lace and embroidery for trimmings.

SUMMER PRUNING OF THE GRAPE.—Very much has been written on this subject, the pith of all being that it is desirable to have a little extra wood as possible, and yet maintain a healthy growth of vine and maturation of fruit. In our May number we drew the attention of our readers to the first point, viz: that of rubbing out or destroying all superfluous buds; but at this season the vines are vigorous and growing so rapidly that an almost daily attention is necessary. If from neglect the shoots have got two or more leaves beyond what they should have, it is better to stop them back with the thumb and finger, leaving an extra leaf, rather than hereafter to go through and cut and slash in order to get breathing room for the foliage. Let the canes for next year's fruiting grow as strong as they may, lateral and all, without any pinching; especially this is to be heeded with Clinton, Norton's Virginia, and other sorts, which, it is fast coming to be learned, produce the most and best fruit on the laterals of this year, and therefore need, in fall prunings, to be left with long canes. On the fruit canes some advice stopping at one leaf beyond the last bunch of fruit; we prefer to let it make two or three leaves before stopping, believing that the more expense of perfect leaf we can get on that cane or extension the better will be our fruit.

Another point we must urge, and that is, a judicious and careful pruning of the fruit. Too much fruit not only exhausts the vine and entitles it so as to induce disease, but the quality of the fruit is so much impaired, that he who buys for the market will reduce the price accordingly. Two pounds of really large and perfect bunches will bring nearly, if not quite, as much as three pounds of imperfect ones; and the grower will find for the first a ready sale, while for the second the buyer will hesitate and haggle about the price.—Exchange.

The Antiquity of Candles.

Certain books inform us that candles and lamps for illumination have been employed from the earliest historical times. Both are mentioned in the Bible; and, indeed, it is difficult to understand from scripture narrative whether candles or lamps are indicated, lamps burning olive oil being ordered to be placed on candlesticks (Lev. xxiv). Pliny, referring to rushes and to flax describes parts of them as adapted for lamps and candlewicks. Although this author minutely describes the process of wax bleaching, his time for the manufacture of candles, Doubtless, however, both wax and tallow were used by the ancients for this purpose; indeed, Apuleius distinguishes two sorts of candles by the names cereæ and sebacæ.

In the middle ages, wax candles of various sizes were made, and it is said in moulds—though the wicks were not now moulded—the wicks being twisted tow. At the command of King Alfred, the chaplains made wax candles in such a manner that time was measured by their burning—six candles lighted in succession, burning exactly twenty-four hours. Several records refer to the trade of wax-chandler as early as the sixteenth century. The first description of rushlights seems to be in White's Natural History of Selborne, published in 1775.—Belgravia.

DEMOLISHING BED-BUGS.—Permit the toenails (not the bed-bugs) to lengthen out considerably, and then, with a keen penknife, give them pen-shaped points. Leave light burning on retiring, and stick your foot two from beneath the counterpane as a bait for the bugs. Keep a vigilant watch, and should one appear after about three or four hours waiting, restrain your blood-thirsty devices until you get him balanced on the very apex of one of the sharpened nails, and then, with all the force you can summon, kick your foot against the ceiling, and if the nail penetrates it an inch or two, you can make up your mind that you've punctured the bug a few. Should your experiment prove a success, there will be apt to be a red spot where the bed-bug struck. You can pretty generally form some idea of the bed-bug's sensations by noticing the strange feeling in the neighborhood of the toe for a few moments after the collision.

GREASE can be extracted from floors by applying a paste of wood ashes; keep it on several days, and then wash it off. Stains on wall paper can be cut out with a sharp knife, and pieces of paper so nicely inserted that no one can see the patch.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral.

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Probably never before in the whole history of medicine, is anything so widely and so deeply upon the confidence of mankind, as this excellent remedy for pulmonary troubles. It is the result of a series of years, and among most of the races of men it has risen higher and higher in their estimation, as it has become better known. Its uniform character and power to cure the various affections of the lungs and throat, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most efficient remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs. As a provision against sudden attacks of Croup, and as a remedy for hoarseness, it is of great value. It is sometimes subject to colds and coughs, all should be provided with this remedy. It is a reliable, safe, and certain remedy, and the disease seemed settled, have been completely cured, and the patient restored to sound health by the Cherry Pectoral. So complete is its mastery over the most obstinate of them, that when they occur, they can be reached under the Cherry Pectoral. Singers and Public Speakers find great protection from it. Asthma is always relieved and often wholly cured by it. Bronchitis is generally cured by taking the Cherry Pectoral in small and frequent doses. So generally are its virtues known that we need not publish the certificates of them here, or do more than assure the public that its qualities are fully maintained.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chills, Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections of the system arising from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

As its name implies, it does Cure, and does not fail. Containing neither Arsenic, Quinine, Bismuth, Zinc, nor any other mineral or poisonous substance whatever, it is in no wise injurious to any patient. The number and importance of its cures, its uniform character, and its power to cure the various affections of the system, have made it known as a reliable protector against them. While adapted to milder forms of disease and to young children, it is at the same time the most efficient remedy that can be given for incipient consumption, and the dangerous affections of the throat and lungs.
